

The Stony Brook Computing Society

March 9, 2016

Thank you for helping us!!!

Thanks so much to everyone that helped out at the bake sales and E-Ball ticket sales!

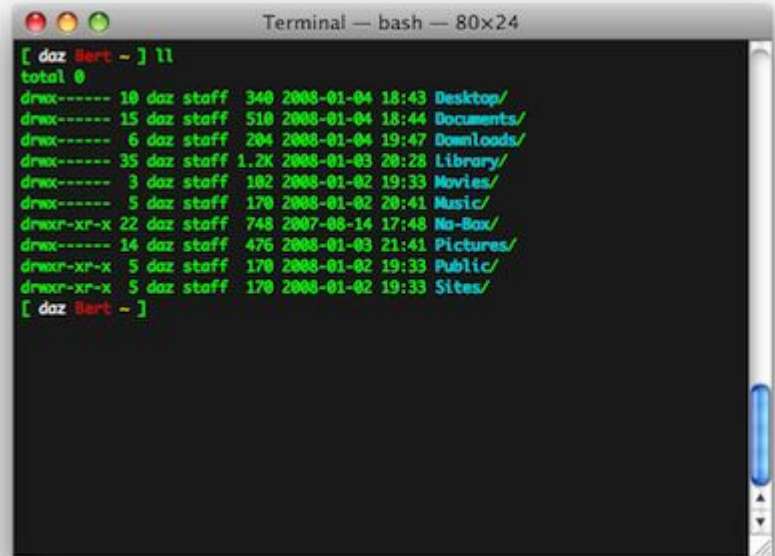

Our Facebook Group Rocks

- Just for the record, our Facebook group is one of the best around.
- Example: this video about buffer overflows, linked to in a post by Josh Wein
 - <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=1S0aBV-Waeo>
- Thanks to everyone for making such an awesome group!

Events Coming Up After Spring Break

The Command Line

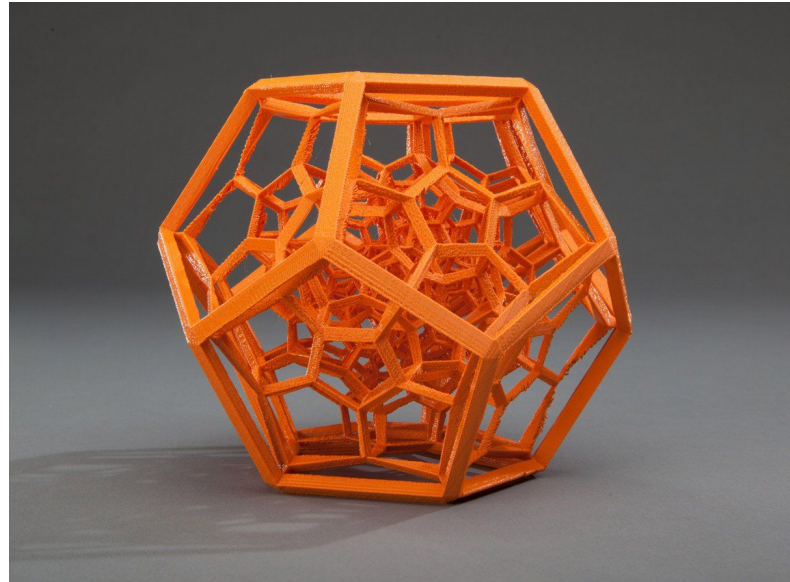

- When: Wednesday, March 30 @ 7:00pm
- Learn how to use terminal!
- Free pizza :D

A screenshot of a macOS Terminal window titled "Terminal — bash — 80x24". The prompt is "[daz Bert ~] ll". The output shows a directory listing for the user's home directory. The first line is "total 0". The following lines are directory entries with permissions, owner, group, size, and creation date and time. The directories listed are Desktop/, Documents/, Downloads/, Library/, Movies/, Music/, Na-Box/, Pictures/, Public/, and Sites/.

3D Printing and Modeling

- Another collaboration with the Innovation Lab!

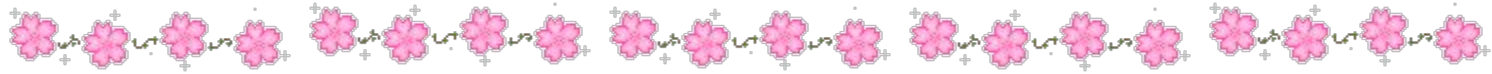

Tour of Microsoft Office in NYC

- This one's still in the works, but we're planning another company tour!
- You should hear more about this after break.

And More!

- We're always coming up with new ideas, so stay tuned for even more SBCS events throughout the semester.

Have a nice Spring Break!!! :)
