

The Stony Brook Computing Society

April 13, 2016

Microsoft Tour

- Friday, April 15th
- Must have received confirmation email (if you signed up but didn't get an email, contact the e-board)
- Meet Halaa & Co. at the ticket machines across the train tracks
- Be there at 8:15am

SBCS Workshop: 3D Modeling & 3D Printing

What: 3D modeling using Autodesk Maya, and submit your creations to the innovation lab to be printed!

When: Wednesday April 20th, 7:00pm

Where: Innovation Lab

Prerequisite: please download and install Autodesk Maya – Click Here to Download

The Stony Brook Computing Society

SBCS Workshop: UI/UX & Graphic Design

- When: Thursday, April 28 at 7pm
- Old CS 2311
- Learn basic UI/UX with Phil!
- Free pizza 🍕 🍕 🍕

Stony Brook/NYC to HackRU Bus

Get your ticket here: <http://bit.ly/1NjJ7H2>

Google Online Marketing Challenge (GOMC)

- <https://www.google.com/onlinechallenge/>
- Registration closes April 20th
- Looking for a way to gain practical experience in the real-world to further develop your business consulting and marketing skills? The Google Online Marketing Challenge (GOMC) is a unique opportunity for students to exercise teamwork, advertising, and consulting skills while using real money on a real advertising platform to support a business or NGO from their local community. GOMC is a wholistic hands-on learning experience for all majors that provides the perfect platform for students to further develop and showcase their strategic, analytical and communication skills.

Elections 2016-2017

Nominee: Arslan Shahid

- Running For : Treasurer
- I am passionate about Computers regardless of the specific fields in Computer Science.
- I would like to arrange more tours to Tech. Companies in the city that would enhance our perspective about job market and demands followed by meeting with the professional to enhance our learning experiences.

Nominee: Michael Alvin

- Running For : Secretary
- SBCS is important to me, because I support the organization's mission to create a community of computer programmers. I believe in today's society, it is vital for people to know how to code since everything is already digitalized. I love how SBCS promotes computer programming through events such as trips to Facebook, code sessions, hackathons, etc. Although I've only started getting involved recently, I had the opportunity to attend Unhackathon last fall and I must say it was a great experience as my first hackathon. The hackathon was friendly and promotes learning in a welcoming way.

- I am a good candidate for the secretary position, because I am a very detail-oriented and organized person. As an executive board member, I plan to take good notes during meetings, events, etc. By good notes I mean recording whatever that is usually needed or whatever that is critical in improving the organization for the future. I also plan to help the other board members organize events.

Nominee: Matthew Del Signore

- Running For : Treasurer
- When I was applying to schools SBCS is the reason I chose stony brook, it is an incredibly unique club.
- I have been treasurer for the club before and know the processes and workflows. I will be training my replacement next year.

Nominee: Steven Marturano

- Running For : Vice President, President
- SBCS has been a great way for me to meet new people in my field of study. I wish to expand the club and give others the same opportunity that I had.
- If elected, I plan to work hard with the board to increase the number of active members and create a great social-educational environment for all to join.

Nominee: Reid Horton

- Running For : Vice President, President
- As a computer scientist and tech enthusiast, my work is a huge part of my life. I go to class; I read programming articles and blogs; I spend countless hours every week trying to come up with elegant solutions for any number of problems. This life consumes me, and as such I need to connect with others who have similar dispositions. Our community gives us incredible power. To share, to learn, to connect. That is why SBCS is important to me.

- As just explained, I am heavily invested in the community. I also have several strengths that are necessary for dealing with all e-board affairs, such as writing, organization, and management. As 2015-2016 president, I have a thorough understanding of how the club operates. My main goals for next year are as follows: (1) continue holding workshops, social events, and company tours, (2) focus more attention on general body meetings to make them more exciting, engaging, and community-oriented, (3) acquire additional funding for food and travel expenses, and (4) prepare dedicated members for leadership positions in the following year.

More nominations?

CONGRATULATIONS NEW EBOARD

President : Reid Horton

VP : Steven Marturano

Secretary : Michael Alvin

Treasurer: Matthew Del Signore